Quantum Care for Optimal Health

By Diane Feen

Have you been to the doctor with a specific complaint only to leave without an answer or a solution to your problem? Dr. Musselman knows about this dilemma all too well. That is why she got her master's certification in functional blood chemistry analysis, and a master's in nutrition. She also has her PhD in natural medicine. She is also a board-certified holistic health practitioner. She is also a trained Corporate Wellness Coach and has worked with large companies in South Florida.

It was a calling that knocked on Musselman's door many times, until she opened it.

"My mother Betsy ran the cardiac center at Stanford University, and my father was a hospital administrator. I lost my mother to heart disease that could have been cured if she had taken a different path to wellness," said Musselman, who is a hero to her patients for their miraculous results. She also saw the effects of eating the wrong food on the body. "I worked in a clinic with children who were eating lots of sugar and I saw the correlation in their communicative disorders."

If you meet her clients, they will tell you their lives have been changed dramatically. Each has their own story to tell, and each one holds Musselman in high esteem – men and women alike.

"Thanks to the Quantum Care program, I lost 35 pounds and I feel like a million bucks! Dr. Musselman's recommendations were easy, and I have never felt better!" NF said.

Dr. Musselman is adamant that blood work, if done correctly, holds answers to health problems and concerns. She sees patterns in a person's body chemistry that gives answers to many disorders in the body. "I find it is very important to catch things before they come chronic health issues. My specialty is prevention and early detection of chronic issues through a comprehensive assessment of bloodwork," she said.

Her practice is predicated on what is called The Quantum Care Program. The program can be done in your home via a telehealth consult, concierge service, or you can go to one of her three holistic retreat sites.

The one in Delray (close to the beach) is a health oasis. The property has a spa room with infrared sauna, a salt wall for halo therapy, color changing chakra chroma-therapy light and meditation area.

You can order organic local services via a touch screen on the fridge and bathroom. "LED voice activated lighting can clean and clear your mind and body."

The retreat site can also be rented without treatment – and is a health infused paradise inside and out. The property is designed for optimal wellness and happiness.

You don't have to convince her clients of that "The Quantum Cure Protocol changed my life. I sleep soundly through the night and have the best physical energy I've had in years. I have joy in my heart and am extremely calm. My chronic muscle headaches have disappeared, and I feel younger, stronger, and healthier physically and emotionally. I have never experienced such powerful rewards from any other therapy or practice," GC said.

Musselman has worked so hard to heal people. Her Quantum Care Protocols are non-synthetic and non-toxic. Products are measured according to your blood work and shipped directly to you.

There is another reason that set the wheels in motion for Musselman. "Have you been to the doctor, had your blood drawn and told everything is normal. Yet you are still fatigued, your hair is falling out and you experience bloating and feel awful?" According to Dr. Musselman that is often the case. That's why she uses The Quantum Care methods that address problems from the inside out.

"Conventional medicine treats the symptoms with synthetics. But I find the imbalances and address the root of the issue with organic cellular formulations and non-invasive techniques," she said.

Musselman is also a proponent of the theory that health has a mind-body connection. That is why her protocols are held in such high esteem.

"It's not just nutrition or the mind, it could be anything from the environment to what you eat. At Quantum Care we assist people with education and accountability. It's not about quick fixes and a synthetic band aid of prescriptions."

Musselman's goal is to help everyone who crosses her path. Her healing methods are proven and her critical eye for preventing disease has helped so many.

"Through my programs I give people practical, actionable guidance so they can feel great, take care of their bodies, and actually enjoy the process."
